Join Center for the Pacific Asian Family for a free training on how to recognize the signs of domestic violence and sexual assault, and how to translate difficult phrases for monolingual Asian survivors who call our 24/7 hotline for crisis intervention and emotional support. CPAF offers an emergency and transitional shelter, para-professional counseling, advocacy and accompaniment, educational workshops, referral to legal and medical services, and many more services at no cost.

Our hotline is available in over 30 Asian languages and dialects with support from volunteers and interns, and this is an opportunity to become more engaged with our violence prevention/intervention efforts. Become involved with our movement to end violence against women and children in our communities!
