"I have unconditional faith I will get better soon" –Alex Tung

Last year, Alex Tung attended A3M's Starnight Annual Gala to appeal for a marrow match. With A3M's help, Alex and his team initiated a large donor recruitment campaign, adding over a thousand donors to the national registry. Unfortunately, Alex could not wait for a donor, as he was battling an aggressive form of leukemia, and accepted the next treatment available to him, a double cord blood transplant.

This year, A3M's Starnight Annual Gala will take place on Saturday, September 26, 2015 at The L.A. Hotel in Downtown Los Angeles. Your sponsorship and participation in our event will allow us to continue providing patients and their families with hope through our life-saving work.

Often, for patients, hope means the power to go on.
You can be that hope for patients – the hope that could be a miracle!

Patients like Alex who need bone marrow transplants to survive depend on the services A3M offers. Our dedicated staff strives to find patients their miracle marrow matches by hosting over 500 donor recruitment drives annually educating the African American, Asian, Hispanic, Pacific Islander, South Asian, and mixed race communities on the need for more potential donors, and offering culturally appropriate patient support services.

Enclosed you will find details about sponsorship levels, benefits, and ways that you can contribute to our gala. If you have any questions or would like additional information, please feel free to contact Madhuri Mistry, Community Relations Manager, at (213) 625-2802 extension 112 or mmistry@a3mHOPE.org, or Ashley Honma, Community Outreach & Development Specialist, at extension 114 or ahonma@a3mHOPE.org.

On behalf of our event co-chairs, Gene and Vickie Kanamori, thank you for your consideration and your commitment to saving lives.

Sincerely,

Erich Nakano
